The GIMI experience does not end here. The institute's senior management keeps in touch with our graduates, fostering cooperation and knowledge sharing long after the programme has ended. You are most welcome to join our family.

“The programme could be a game changer for many developing countries in search of motivation for national development. The Israeli spirit of patriotism, optimism and can-be-done is infective”

Prof. Isaac Folorunso Adewole, Former Vice Chancellor University of Ibadan,
Now Minister of Health, Nigeria

Tuition scholarships are available for qualified candidates. Local expenses and airfare are to be covered by the participants or their organisations.

A special Early Bird Discount will be granted to candidates who submit their applications by 16 May 2016.
